

Invitation to an Introductory Course on the Principles of Stage Lighting

Saturday 1 and Sunday 2 February 2025 | 10:30–16:30

MADS Theatre, Lord Street, Macclesfield SK11 6SY

£25 each

Join us for an immersive two-day course designed for aspiring lighting designers, theatre enthusiasts, and anyone keen to explore the vibrant world of stage lighting. Led by renowned expert Oliver Chilton, this course will take place over two days in February at MADS Theatre in Macclesfield.

Throughout this engaging workshop, participants will delve into the fundamental principles of stage lighting, including colour theory, light placement, and the emotional impact of lighting design. Oliver, with years of experience in the industry, will share insights drawn from notable productions and personal experiences, making complex concepts accessible and enjoyable.

The course will cover key topics such as:

- Understanding Lights: Learn about different types of lighting fixtures and their effects on mood and atmosphere
- Design Techniques: Discover how to create compelling visual narratives through strategic lighting choices
- Practical Application: Gain hands-on experience setting up lighting rigs and exploring various effects in a collaborative environment

Each day includes a light buffet lunch, offering the perfect opportunity to network with fellow participants and discuss ideas in a relaxed setting.

Whether you're looking to kick-start a career in lighting design, or simply want to enhance your understanding of theatrical production, this course will provide you with the foundational skills and inspiration to illuminate your projects.
